

There was no state or federal department of labor. There were practically no labor press, and no labor headquarters.